

Post it note comment on Talk the Walk: Playful Cities 22 July 2010

"I am attending Talk the Walk for the very first time. I really enjoyed very much hearing people talking about the same thing from different aspects."

"We need to join all these ideas and people together to make London a playful place."

"Thanks again Andrew for organising this! It's an AMAZING idea and I felt honoured to be part of it!"

"Thought on Playfulness from a designer point of view: how can we make places more playful? Places are like toys. There are toys that tell us exactly what we need to do and there are toys that let us play, So designers, refrain from the urge of perfection, over-control and liveless finished places. In environmental psychology terms: create more affordances and less behaviour settings."

"Bit of a leap of faith coming – but useful, lots of new ideas and space to think – to re-examine practice – thanks."

"Found Talk the Walk very thought provoking."

"I found the session really interesting and enjoyable – a great way to meet new people with similar interests and potential to work on projects with, or at least exchange ideas."

"What can we do to change the attitudes of adults and politicians towards children, play and ? – too many don't like all three! Great format – interesting – would be good to stay together."

"Thanks again, Andrew for a fruitful journey from Brighton. I can offer a venue and catering if you want to bring an event to the seaside!!"

"Process seemed to work better than the last time – and a great mine of ideas and people."

"Talk the Walk – excellent gathering – fruitful ideas – more required."
